

A group of people, including men and women of various ages, are holding a large white banner in a public square or park. The banner has two lines of text. The top line is written in a large, black, cursive script. The bottom line is written in a smaller, black, bold, sans-serif font. The people are dressed in casual summer clothing. In the background, there are trees and a clear blue sky. A person in a striped shirt and blue pants is crouching on the ground to the right of the banner. The overall scene suggests a peaceful demonstration or protest.
